Believe it or not the boys are not from the German town of Heidelberg, they are in fact from a small Tyrolean Village called "Yetz-getz Sloachd" which is set in the foothills of the Alps and revolves around the local brewery and taverns.

It was in one of those taverns on a dark winters night many years ago that a small band of ballet dancers tried their first German Bier. Upon tasting that delightful amber liquid they kicked off their tutus and took up playing Oompah music in the local taverns.

Soon they were all married to 5 busy serving wenches and running their own tavern "Ze Bier Platz", which became the talk of the Alps with its pumping Oompah music, slapstick atmosphere and busy serving wenches.

"Die Heidelbergher Boys" were all born in the cellar at "Ze Bier Platz" and as they grew older it was obvious what they were to do with their lives -take a part of their parents and Ze Bier Platz to the rest of the world and here they are:

Herr Von Boot (Keyboards)
Niklaus Schultz (Trombone)
Alun Dorbbe (Drums/Percussion)

Max von Phatbasdad (Vocals/Trumpet)
Keifer Brogundt (Trumpet)
Jurgen Wilhelm (Drums/Percussion).
